Program

Program Summary

The Civilian Army Recruitment of Exceptional Soldiers (CARES) program is an outreach and web-based program used to assist our nation's wounded warriors for their selfless service to our nation and allies by reaching out to them to consider applying for civilian positions within the command. These dedicated military members provided honorable service to this country and should expect to receive nothing less than a sincere commitment on our part to help them successfully assimilate back into the civilian work force. These soldiers have unique training and valuable experience that make them solid candidates for positions within this command.

Program Goal

This program will provide a mechanism for a service-connected wounded warrior to receive employment opportunities, career advancement, job mobility, and ultimately family economic well being and greater financial security.

TRADOC will partner with other Army organizations, the Veterans Administration and veteran support groups to accomplish this objective.

Employment opportunity tracks consist of:

- Wage Grade positions (typically blue collar jobs).
- GS full performance positions.
- Internships in career programs that provide a structured work/training experience with scheduled advancements based on performance.
- Student Career Education Program (SCEP) which provides job experience with related education.
